

RM-10967 is fully supported. If only a handful of Hams who have remained loyal to amateur radio are now able to increase their support with emergency or disaster assistance, on a national and international basis, the proposal will have saved lives. What about the possibility of more hams who might provide some form of intelligence to the government, whether it be to the CIA, FBI, or Office of Homeland Security, from information gleaned while operating DX? Additionally, potential of having more "goodwill ambassadors" working on behalf of this country, spreading hope and enthusiasm, will be increased by a larger number of amateurs throughout the USA. I see nothing but good things coming to Hams, the radio hobby, and this country. Is this called, serving the public good?
